

Testing routing search bar function:

1) Entering invalid postal code number

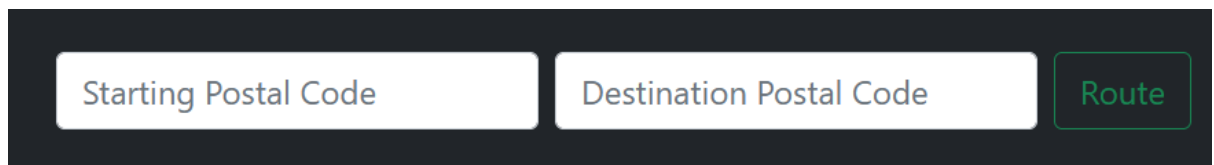

A dark-themed routing search bar with two white input fields. The first field contains the number '223' and the second field contains '086'. To the right of the fields is a green button with the text 'Route'.

Result:

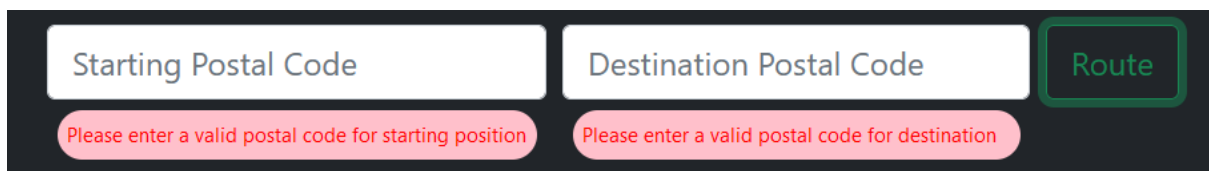

The routing search bar from the previous step, but now with red error messages below the input fields. The first field has the message 'Please enter a valid postal code for starting position' and the second field has 'Please enter a valid postal code for destination'. The 'Route' button remains green.

2) Leaving fields Empty:

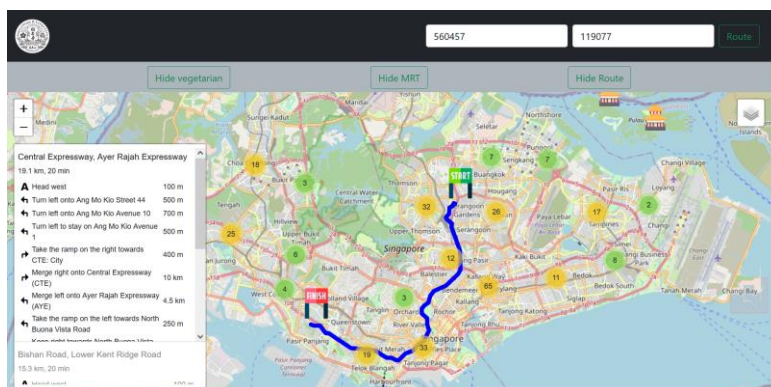

A dark-themed routing search bar with two white input fields. The first field is labeled 'Starting Postal Code' and the second field is labeled 'Destination Postal Code'. To the right of the fields is a green button with the text 'Route'.

Result:

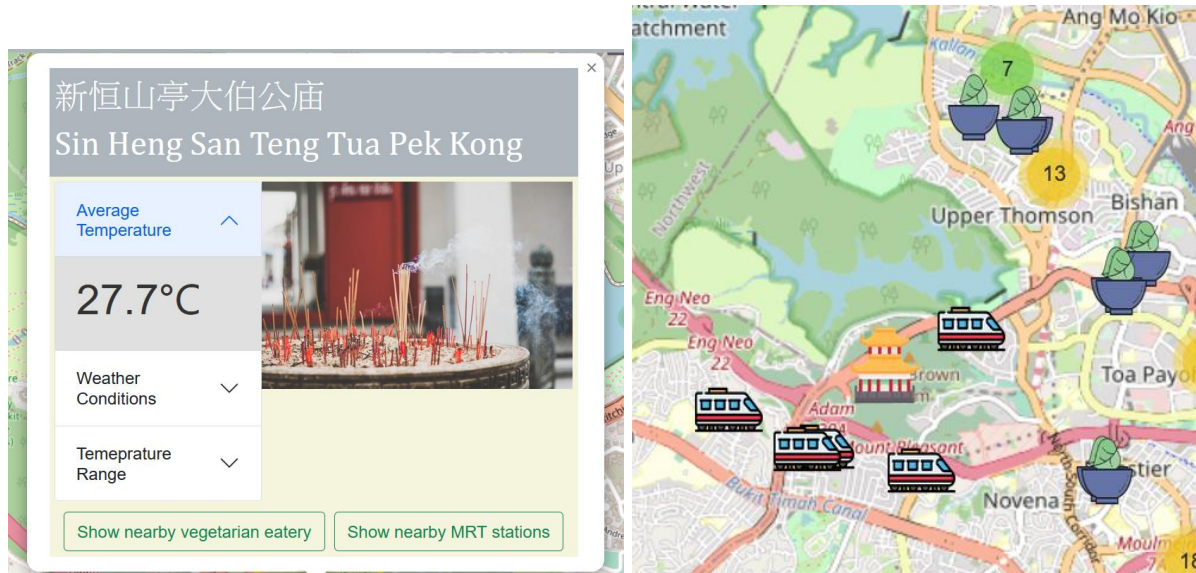

The routing search bar from the previous step, but now with red error messages below the input fields. The first field has the message 'Please enter a valid postal code for starting position' and the second field has 'Please enter a valid postal code for destination'. The 'Route' button remains green.

Correct postal code inputs:

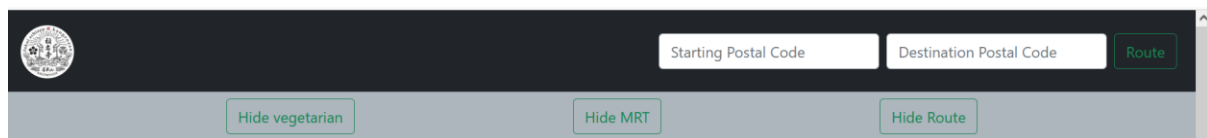

Clicking on “Hide Route” will clear and remove the route from the map

The popup on the left is displayed on clicking a temple marker as seen below, clicking the buttons at the bottom of the popup will show nearby vegetarian and MRT stations as seen on the right:

To remove the vegetarian eateries and MRT layers, simply click the “hide vegetarian” and “hide MRT” layers on top.

In the main page:

月下老人 Yue Xia Lao Ren Notable temple: 粤海清庙 Yuen Hai Ching Temple 月下老人(Yue Xia Lao Ren or short for Yue-Lao) is a god of marriage and love in Chinese mythology. He appears as an old man under the moon. Believers worship Yue-Lao as the God of Marriage. When Yue-Lao ties a red string to a couple(牵红线), regardless of them being arch enemies, in times of riches, poverty or how far both are away from each other, as long as the red string is tied, they will definitely be husband and wife. Hence the Chinese saying, 'marriage of a thousand miles bond by a string'. Click to visit recommended temple	观音菩萨 Goddess Of Mercy Notable temple: 观音堂佛祖庙 Kwan Im Thong Hood Cho Temple Guan Yin is the deity of mercy and compassion. And much like how one would seek the divine for help through prayer, Chinese families often pray to Guan Yin to attract compassion, strength to tide themselves through suffering, and overall good fortune. Guan Yin is also often considered the patron deity for mothers, and some customs believe that placing a Guan Yin statue in the home will bless the family with filial children as well as protect them from harm. Click to visit recommended temple	天后圣母 Mazu Notable temple: 天福宫 Thian Hock Keng Mazu (妈祖), also known as the Goddess of the Sea, is a sea deity popularly worshipped in the provinces of Fujian and Guangdong in Mainland China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Macau, and various parts of Southeast Asia with a sizeable Chinese population like Malaysia, Singapore and Indonesia. She is believed to have authority over the Four Seas Dragon Kings (四海龙王) and serves as a patron deity for seafarers and all who depend on the sea for a living. Traditionally, one prays to Mazu for peace and safety. Worship practices include ritual offerings of food and joss sticks, festivals and street processions. The existence of sea deity worship here is a reflection of Singapore's rich migration history and maritime past. Click to visit recommended temple

Clicking on each of the cards will bring users to the map and zoom in one the particular temple listed in the card.

Testing for email subscribe button:

Sign up for temple events notifications	<input type="text" value="username@email.com"/>	<input type="button" value="Subscribe"/>
---	---	--

Valid email address must be entered:

Sign up for temple events notifications

Subscribe

Please enter an email address.